'A film can just come along and change things for you'

Prathamesh Bandekar

POOJA HEGDE

Onkar Kulkarni

Pooja Hegde, who has been a part of successful movies in Telugu and Tamil cinema, started 2025 with Deva. Talking about making a breakthrough in Bollywood, the actress, who made her Hindi film debut with the Hrithik Roshan-starrer Mohenjo Daro in 2016, says, "Who doesn't want to make it big in Bollywood? Which actor has ever said 'no' to this? One definitely wants to succeed, and you never know when a film will come along and change things for you."

'I DON'T HAVE SOMEONE PRODUCING FILMS FOR ME'

Pooja, who is originally from Mumbai, appreciates how welcoming South filmmakers have been towards her. She says, "When you're not from the industry, it's not just about whether the audience gives you a chance, but whether the industry does. Every film becomes crucial because I don't have someone producing films for me or reassuring me that even if one doesn't work out, they'll make the next one for me. You get fewer opportunities. I've built my career by constantly hustling."

Pooja adds, "It's been an upward journey, and every film has been vital for me. Every film can make or break you, and you need to push through if it doesn't work out to secure your next project. So, I never take my work for granted."

'I WANT TO DO MORE HINDI FILMS AND STRIKE A BALANCE'

Pooja, who was featured in Housefull 4, hopes for more opportunities in Bollywood. She reflects, "I grew up watching Bollywood films, so the decisions I make regarding Hindi movies are very emotional for me. I'm thrilled that some of my South films have crossed boundaries and reached the Hindi audience. Now, I want to do more Hindi films and strike a balance."

The actress, who will next be seen in the Tamil film Retro with Suriya, be-

I don't have someone producing films for me or reassuring me that even if one doesn't work out, they'll make the next one for me. I've built my career by constantly hustling lieves that it is important for actors to be open to the projects that come their way, irrespective of the language. "You never know who's watching you and sees something unique in you," she says, adding, "My goal is to leave behind a legacy of work that is good, no matter the language. While growing up, many films inspired me, and I, too, want to be a part of movies that make a lasting impact."

Fame's afterparty: Who slays, who stays?

Last week, 20-year-old Mumbai resident Deepak Gupta broke the internet with his "transformation" story. From a boy in a plain white tee posing awkwardly in front of the Gateway of India, Gupta morphed into a sleek-cheeked model owning Paris catwalks, showcasing for global brands like Louis Vuitton, Burberry and Emporio Armani. As a teenager, Gupta was "repeatedly rejected" and was told that he would "never be a Louis Vuitton model."

Gupta's tale of perseverance and self-belief resonated all over. Hrithik Roshan and Nargis Fakhri took notice.

We all love a success story. And there's more than a few stories similar to Gupta's – that of 60-year-old daily wage-earning labourer Mammikka from Kozhikode, or 14-year-old Maleesha Kharwa from a Mumbai slum. Kharwa, "discovered" by Hollywood actor Robert Hoffman, became the face of luxury beauty brand Forest Essentials' Yuvati collection in 2023. Mammikka shot to fame in 2022 with a single shoot by photographer Shareek Vayalil, trading his faded lungi for a suave suit and tie.

The real hero in such stories is the transformative power of media in providing new opportunities, regardless of age or background. In a country still obsessed with beauty standards largely dictated by film stars, such instances are also proof that stereotypes can be smashed from time to time.

There is, however, a different concern. A journey from the slums to dazzling runways, modelling for global brands has its romance – but what happens next?

No one remembers Unmesh Gunjal or Arman Rathod – the first generation of Indian Tiktok stars with over a million followers. Their "career" ended with the ban of the platform. Ranu Mandal, who was the toast of the nation with her untrained voice hitting all the right notes, now lives a life of penury.

Thriving in a fiercely competitive industry demands more than a viral moment. Lasting transformation requires a solid plan, an ecosystem of mentors, financial literacy, and adaptability in an ever-changing landscape.

For every Deepak Gupta who makes it, there are others left navigating the aftershocks of fleeting stardom. The real challenge isn't getting discovered – it's staying relevant in an industry that constantly looks for the next big thing.

For now, it may well be Kumbh's Monalisa Bhosle, who's on her way to making a Bollywood debut after her tryst with 'viral' fame.

STAR KIDS START AS ADs, THEN BECOME LEAD ACTORS!

Ibrahim Ali Khan continues the long-standing tradition of film family debutants starting behind the camera

KAKOLI MUKHERJEE

THE ASIAN AGE

Before stepping into the limelight, many Bollywood star kids first find themselves behind the lens, learning the ropes as assistant directors (ADs). Ibrahim Ali Khan, whose debut film Nadaaniyan releases on March 7, took this route, working as an AD on Karan Johar's Rocky Aur Rani Kii Prem Kahaani. Similarly, Veer Pahariya, who recently made his debut with Sky Force, was an AD on Bhediya. His mother, Smruti Shinde, is a well-known TV producer.

Despite Bollywood's evolving landscape, this pattern remains constant — newcomers with industry connections often begin by assisting on film sets before making their acting debut. This trend has long been a rite of passage, seen in actors like Varun Dhawan (My Name is Khan), Arjun Kapoor (Kal Ho Naa Ho), and even Vicky Kaushal, who worked under Anurag Kashyap on Gangs of Wasseypur before finding his own footing. Kaushal's father, Sham Kaushal, is a renowned action director, further cementing the industry ties that often ease the transition.

The legacy goes back even further: Hrithik Roshan, now shooting for War 2, assisted his father Rakesh Roshan on Khudgarz, Karan Arjun, and Koyla before making his spectacular debut with Kaho Na Pyaar Hai. Ranbir Kapoor also followed this trajectory, working as an AD on Black before his acting debut in Saawariya.

Beyond learning the craft, this behind-the-scenes experience helps these young actors build industry relationships that prove invaluable when they step in front of the camera. However, not all ADs come from film families. Sidharth Malhotra, for instance, worked as an AD on My Name is Khan before his acting career took off, despite having no industry lineage.

Interestingly, some star kids have chosen to break away from this tradition altogether. Aryan Khan, son of Shah Rukh Khan, bypassed the acting route entirely, opting instead to make his mark as a full-time director.

While the industry continues to change, the AD-to-actor pipeline remains a well-trodden path especially for those with the right connections.

‘जिंदगी ना मिलेगी दोबारा 2’ को लेकर अटकलें तेज

त्र तिक रोशन, फरहान अख्तर और अभय देओल अभिनीत जिंदगी ना मिलेगी दोबारा अपनी रिलीज के 13 साल बाद भी प्रशंसकों की पसंदीदा बनी हुई है। जबकि दर्शक जिंदगी ना मिलेगी दोबारा के सीकवल का बेसब्री से इंतजार कर रहे हैं। वहीं, इस बीच अब ऋतिक, फरहान और अभय हाल ही में फिर से साथ आए, लेकिन दुख की बात है कि सीकवल के लिए नहीं।

ऋतिक, फरहान और अभय यास आइलैंड के साथ एक विशेष सहयोग के लिए फिर से साथ आए। तीनों ने अपने सोशल मीडिया हैंडल पर एक तस्वीर साझा की और एक संयुक्त पोस्ट

में लिखा, समय लगा, लेकिन आखिरकार हमने यस कहा- जिंदगी को यस बोल। प्रशंसकों ने इस पोस्ट पर उत्साह के साथ प्रतिक्रिया व्यक्त की, हालांकि कई लोगों ने अनुमान लगाया कि यह सहयोग किसी विज्ञापन के लिए था। इस साल की शुरुआत में फरहान ने ऋतिक और अभय के साथ एक रेस्तरां में बैठे हुए एक वीडियो शेयर किया था। वीडियो में अभय को एक किताब को घुस्ते हुए देखा गया था। ऋतिक ने भी उसी किताब को देखते हुए कहा, अधिश्चस्नीय, जबकि फरहान ने कहा, शानदार। जिस किताब को तीनों देख रहे थे, वह थी द थ्री मस्किटर्स, जो फ्रांसीसी लेखक

एलेक्सैंडर ड्युमास का क्लासिक एडवेंचर उपन्यास है। फरहान अख्तर ने इस पोस्ट में अपनी बहन और फिल्म निर्माता जोया अख्तर को टैग किया। कैप्शन में उन्होंने लिखा, जोया अख्तर क्या आपको ये संकेत दिख रहे हैं? बैकग्राउंड में फरहान ने प्रतिष्ठित जिंदगी ना मिलेगी दोबारा का गाना सेनोरिता जोड़ा गया था, जिससे प्रशंसक पुरानी यादों में खो गए। जिंदगी ना मिलेगी दोबारा में कैटरीना कैफ और कल्कि कोचलिन भी थीं। इस फिल्म का निर्देशन जोया अख्तर ने किया था और एक्सेल एंटरटेनमेंट के तहत फरहान अख्तर और रितेश सिधवानी ने इसका निर्माण किया था।
