Ray's 'blackface' moment

In Satyajit Ray's 'Aranyer Din Ratri', Simi Garewal donned black body paint, a problem that persists in cinema

Somak Ghoshal

somak.ghoshal@partner.livemint.com

Satyajit Ray's 1970 classic Aranyer Din Ratri recently received a standing ovation at the Cannes film festival. Restored by Film Heritage Foundation, the movie was presented by Wes Anderson, along with Sharmila Tagore and Simi Garewal, the only surviving members of the cast.

Tagore played the urbane Aparna in the film, beguiling four young men who come to Palamau in Jharkhand (then in Bihar) for a break from their busy lives in Kolkata. She is a sharp contrast to Garewal's Duli, a Santhal woman, who plays a pivotal role in the denouement.

For the first few days of the shoot, Ray had Garewal observe tribal women at a local watering hole. Once she had understood the nuances of their demeanour, she had her body blackened. On her website, the actor says it took four hours for her to become Duli, and three hours to remove the paint afterwards.

In the 1960s, when Ray shot Aranyer Din Ratri, featuring a "blackface" (an actor whose face and/or body are darkened to represent someone unlike them) on screen was par for the course. Hindi movies embraced the blackface trope with impunity. From Ashok Kumar in Meri Surat Teri Aankhen (1963), where he played the dark-complexioned Pyare with fanged dentures and a wild wig, to Meena Kumari playing Rajni, a dark-skinned woman in Main Bhi Ladki Hoon (1964), examples abound. The tradition is sadly unbroken to this day, albeit shifting towards "brownface"—Alia Bhatt in Udta Punjab (2016), Hrithik Roshan in Super 30 (2019), Bhumi Pednekar in Bala (2019) and so on.

It's disappointing, though not entirely surprising, that mainstream cinema is yet to rid itself of such regressive traits. After all, misogyny, homophobia and Islamophobia, in various degrees, not only continue to be part of India's commercial cinema, but have led to blockbusters like Kabir Singh (2019) and Animal (2023). The baffling part is that a director like Ray, widely lauded for his humanism and aestheticism, should have fallen for the same trope.

When questioned about her choice to play a Santhal, Garewal spoke of the exigency behind the decision: "You needed a professional to play the role." One wonders if Ray would have taken a similar line of defence. The irony is heightened, considering the film (inspired by a novel by Sunil Gangopadhyay), lays bare the hypocrisy of upper-caste elites towards those less "civilised" than them.

The word sabhya (civilised) appears several times in the Bengali novel, especially in the context of the men who want to relinquish all decorum of modern life to immerse themselves in the "wild" freedom of the forests. Their distance from civic rules gives them unfettered licence to behave like overlords. They demand to be served, sexually and otherwise, and remain oblivious to the inconveniences they cause to the dwellers of the forest.

A couple of these men do feel periodic stabs of conscience. Sanjay, who oversees labour relations at a factory, is pricked by the disgraceful behaviour of his friends. As the Naxal movement upturned the status quo in Kolkata, Sanjay and his educated friends hanker after a taste of the lives of the nobles savages—by partaking of their food, liquor and women, while refusing to give up their daily necessities, like having boiled eggs for breakfast.

Did Ray inadvertently internalise their mindset while casting Garewal as Duli? Or was he, in fact, mocking himself as a member of the same elite as the protagonists, by putting her in the role? From the distance of 55 years, we can only speculate about these questions, while reckoning with our discomfort, either way.

Why longevity is the new luxury

From biohacking to ageing control & wellness monitoring, the world's ultra-rich are going the extra mile to stay young and live longer.

Gene tests start at ₹22,000, while epigenetic age testing begins at ₹47,000. But prices vary depending on the company.

The global biohacking market is valued at $24.81 billion (₹1.13 lakh crore) in 2024 and is poised to grow to an impressive CAGR of 18.95% from 2023 to 2030.

According to reports, key drivers of this growth include the rise of wearable health trackers, genetic testing kits, smart devices, and apps that monitor and analyse biometric data.

— Prof Subrata Saha, HoD Radiology, Presidency University, Kolkata

What's more desirable than a new lipstick? Living longer. This is how a Vogue Business article sums up the latest luxury trend worldwide — wellness hacks and longevity. While Silicon Valley tech billionaire Bryan Johnson's age-reversal experiment is a bit of a stretch, given the twentysomethans, the world's ultra-rich and celebs are not that far behind when it comes to pursuing wellness and longevity. From David Beckham's daily supplements, which now include adaptogens and super greens, Chris Hemsworth's fitness app, which has evolved into a full-blown longevity lab, to Alia Bhatt monitoring her sleep cycle and overall wellness, celebs worldwide are opting for premium wellness hacks. And there's more...

Gyms were a luxury 30 years ago. So were aesthetic clinics. Now they're mainstream. The same will happen to biohacking and other modern wellness therapies with time.

— Pallav Chordia, founder & CEO of a longevity company

Alia Bhatt swears by her Oura Band when it comes to monitoring her overall wellness. "It's beautiful, and I think it's been the most accurate way to monitor my sleep," Alia told Vogue in a video.

There's a quiet crisis among mid-lifers, especially those between 45 and 55, who feel pressured to stay sexually vibrant, mentally sharp and camera-ready. It's a psychological treadmill.

— Dr Hemant Mittal, consultant psychiatrist

Bryan Johnson holds up a bag of plasma extracted from his own body.

The 'blueprint' for the future

That's Silicon Valley tech billionaire Bryan Johnson for you. The 47-year-old spends over $2 million (₹1.71 lakh crore) a year and five hours a day chasing immortality. Johnson's morning routine — from 4:30am to 10am — is packed with biohacking rituals involving saunas, light therapy, Zone 2 workouts, a nutrient-rich breakfast, and sessions in a hyperbaric oxygen chamber. He not only follows every new-age wellness, fitness and diet regimen, but even had a plasma transfusion from his 18-year-old son — all to rewind his biological age to 18. While some call him a visionary, others wonder if he's too busy trying to live forever to actually live.

The biohacking boom in India

The trend took off post-COVID, says Pallav Chordia, founder & CEO of a longevity brand. "The pandemic made people value health over material things. That's when we brought ice-bath tubs to India." Since then, his company has collaborated with anti-ageing clinics that assess biological age through blood tests and offer targeted interventions. He added that science is catching up fast. "Ageing is often accelerated by stress, poor sleep and improper nutrition. If a test shows your biological age is speeding up, something's off. But you can intervene." Pallav points out that such therapies, once reserved for elite athletes, are now being used by celebs including Shoh Bakt Khan, Vicky Devendran, Alia Arjun and Shilpa Shetty.

Longevity lingo decoded

Epigenetic testing: Reveals how lifestyle choices affect gene expression. The Kardashians sisters took this test on their show.

NAD+ boost: These are IV infusions of the coenzyme, Nicotinamide adenine dinucleotide (NAD+), said to boost energy and support cellular repair. Janhvi Kapoor, Hrithik Roshan, Kareena Kapoor, and others are known to take the drips.

Red light therapy (RLT): Exposure to light of this wavelength is said to promote collagen production, improve sleep, and speed up post-workout recovery.

The wellness routine of Deepika Padukone, Priyanka Chopra and Bella Hadid includes RLT.

Biohacking: Upgrading the body using tech, data, and DIY science. Suniel Shetty, Jeff Bezos, Peter Dinklage, and Bryan Johnson are vocal proponents; some even invest in cutting-edge biohacking ventures.

Ice bath: A cold plunge is said to boost mood, reduce inflammation, and earn some Instagram cred. Samantha Ruth Prabhu, Cristiano Ronaldo, and others have embraced the icy dip for health and hype.

Infrared sauna: A glowing sweat session for detox, muscle relief, and patience. Lady Gaga and Selena Gomez are fans of this wellness ritual.

2. In July 2024, Kim Kardashian and sister Khloé took a biological age test on The Kardashians. Kim, 45, was deemed to have (biological) age of 28 — beating her 35. Kim stepped back on Instagram, flaunting her "athlete-grade" body fat and lower density scores, plus a peek into her in-home red light therapy bed.

3. Cristiano Ronaldo is known to take ice baths after intense physical activity and workouts.

હતિક-હોમ્બલ ફિલ્મ્સ આગામી પ્રોજેક્ટ માટે તૈયાર! 'KGF'ના નિર્માતાઓ બોલિવૂડના 'કબીર' સાથે ફિલ્મ બનાવશે, ફેન્સે કહ્યું- ખૂબ જ મજા પડશે!

મુંબઈ : ઋત્વિક રોશને પણ એક મોટો પ્લાન તૈયાર કર્યો છે. વાસ્તવમાં તેની શરૂઆત WAR 2 થી થશે. આ ફિલ્મ આ વર્ષે ઓગસ્ટમાં રિલીઝ થઈ રહી છે. ફિલ્મનું ટીઝર થોડા દિવસ પહેલા જ રિલીઝ થયું હતું. જેને મિશ્ર પ્રતિસાદ મળ્યો. આ ટીઝરમાં ઋત્વિક રોશન અને જુનિયર એનટીઆર એકબીજા સાથે લડતા જોવા મળે છે. હવે તે KGF અને સલાર બનાવનાર પ્રોડક્શન કંપની હોમ્બલે ફિલ્મ્સ સાથે કામ કરવા જઈ રહ્યો છે. તે તેની આગામી પેન ઈન્ડિયા ફિલ્મમાં મુખ્ય ભૂમિકામાં જોવા મળશે. ઋત્વિક રોશનની ફિલ્મ કયા જોનરની હશે? તેની સાથે કઈ અભિનેત્રી હશે? બજેટ અને સ્ટોરી શું હશે? નિર્માતાઓએ હાલ પૂરતું બધું છુપાવી રાખ્યું છે. પરંતુ એ વાતની પુષ્ટિ થઈ ગઈ છે કે તે કંઈક મોટું કરવા જઈ રહ્યો છે. જોકે, હોમ્બલે ફિલ્મ્સે આગામી પ્રોજેક્ટ માટે પ્રભાસ કે યશ ને બદલે, ઋત્વિકને કેમ પસંદ કરવામાં આવ્યો? તાજેતરમાં હોમ્બલે ફિલ્મ્સે પોતે સોશિયલ મીડિયા પર એક પોસ્ટ શેર કરી છે. જેના દ્વારા તેણે પુષ્ટિ આપી કે તે ઋત્વિક રોશન સાથે કામ કરવા જઈ રહ્યો છે. તેનું નિવેદન હતું- 'દરેક વ્યક્તિ તેને ગ્રીક ભગવાન કહે છે, તેણે લોકોના દિલો પર રાજ કર્યું છે. આપણે બધા જોઈ રહ્યા છીએ કે તે શું છે. હોમ્બલે પરિવાર સાથે, અમે આ સહયોગ માટે ઋત્વિક રોશનનું ગર્વથી સ્વાગત કરીએ છીએ. એક સ્ટોરી ખુલવાની છે, જે ભવ્યતા અને કઠોરતાથી ભરેલી છે. ધ બિગ બેંગ શરૂ થઈ ગઈ છે'. નિર્માતાઓએ સ્પષ્ટ કરી દીધું છે કે તેઓ કંઈક મોટું કરવા જઈ રહ્યા છે. આ પોસ્ટ બહાર આવતાની સાથે જ ફેન્સ તરફથી ઘણી ટિપ્પણીઓ આવી રહી છે. ફેન્સ ઇચ્છે છે કે તે પ્રશાંત નીલ સાથે ઋત્વિક રોશનની ફિલ્મ બનાવે. જોકે, ઋત્વિક રોશન ટૂંક સમયમાં હોમાબેલ ફિલ્મ્સ સાથે કામ કરશે તેવા સમાચાર વર્ષ 2022 થી આવી રહ્યા છે. યશ પણ ઇચ્છતો હતો કે ઋત્વિક રોશન આ KGF બ્રહ્માંડનો ભાગ બને.

હોમ્બલે ફિલ્મ્સ પહેલાથી જ KGF 3 માં યશ સાથે કામ કરવા જઈ રહ્યું છે. બે ભાગ આવી ગયા છે. પ્રભાસની ફિલ્મ 'સલાર'એ પણ સારી કમાણી કરી. હવે બીજા ભાગ પર કામ કરવામાં આવશે. બંને સુપરસ્ટારને બાજુ પર રાખીને, પ્લાન ઋત્વિક રોશન પર રહેશે. કારણ કે યશ અને પ્રભાસ પહેલેથી જ તેમની ફિલ્મોમાં વ્યસ્ત છે. જોકે, ઋત્વિક રોશન ટૂંક સમયમાં હોમાબેલ ફિલ્મ્સ સાથે કામ કરશે તેવા સમાચાર વર્ષ 2022 થી આવી રહ્યા છે. યશ પણ ઇચ્છતો હતો કે ઋત્વિક રોશન આ KGF બ્રહ્માંડનો ભાગ બને.
